COURSEWORK ENROLMENT PROCEDURE

SCOPE

This procedure applies to all Monash University coursework students, staff and coursework courses and units.

For the purpose of this procedure, references to 'the University' includes activities of Monash University Australia, Monash University Malaysia, Monash University Indonesia, Monash Suzhou, and the Monash University Prato Centre, unless indicated otherwise.

In this procedure references to 'Monash Connect' include Monash Connect for Australian locations and Indonesia, Monash Malaysia Connect for Malaysia, unless otherwise specified.

This procedure does not apply to professional development education programs.

For students at Monash University Indonesia, this policy has been translated into the Indonesian language (Bahasa) and can be accessed on the University's Policy Bank.

PROCEDURE STATEMENT

This procedure provides the requirements and processes for enrolment in University coursework courses and units that align with the enrolment principles specified in the Enrolment and Timetable Policy.

1. Study load and general enrolment requirements

Basic requirements

1.1 Students must complete their enrolment tasks and pay all prescribed fees, levies and charges by the dates set by the University, as stated in the course agreement, offer letter and other University correspondence.

1.2 Students must provide accurate and current personal information and make every reasonable effort to ensure their enrolment details are correct at all times during their enrolment.

Communication with students

1.3 The University provides students with a student email account, and access to the student portal.

1.4 When students enrol or re-enrol they agree to check their student email account regularly (2-3 days a week).

1.5 The student email address is the primary method of communication; however, other contact details including mobile phone, alternative email and postal address may also be used. When emailing the University, students must use their student email account unless the student no longer has access to their email account.

1.6 For email correspondence with students, all staff, including adjuncts and any other associates who teach or supervise students, must use their staff email account and only correspond to the student email account. In circumstances where a student no longer has access to their email account, staff can respond to an external email address provided they take reasonable steps to verify the identity of the student and don't disclose any personal information about the student.

Study load

1.7 Enrolment in 48 credit points per calendar year is a full time study load and represents 1.0 Equivalent Full-Time Student Load (EFTSL) (100 percent load) with respect to student statistics, fee structures and Commonwealth Register of Institutions and Courses for Overseas Students (CRICOS) registration. In Australia, the full-time load is also used with respect to Commonwealth Supported Places (CSP) and the calculation of course duration as specified in the Confirmation of Enrolment (CoE).

1.8 Full-time students are expected to enrol in 48 credit points per calendar year at the time of enrolment or re-enrolment, unless the full-time load for the course varies from 48 credit points or otherwise approved by the University. Part-time students are expected to enrol in a minimum of 24 credit points per calendar year. Students who have fewer credit points remaining to complete their course can enrol in the remaining number of credit points only.

1.9 The University deems a student to be a part-time student if they are enrolled in less than 36 credit points for the calendar year, or equivalent for students who are not studying a full year. A student enrolled in 36 credit points or more for the calendar year, or equivalent for students who are not studying a full year, is deemed to be a full-time student. International students are subject to credit point requirements set out in 1.11-1.12.

1.10 Part-time enrolment is not permitted in some courses, as indicated in the Handbook.

Enrolment load for international students

1.11 International students studying on a student visa or study visa must enrol in a standard full-time study load that is equivalent to 48 credit points across all teaching periods in a calendar year to complete their course within the standard full-time course duration or as specified on their CoE or Student Pass.

1.12 International students may be approved to enrol in fewer than 24 credit points per semester (or half-year equivalent, for non-semester teaching periods), subject to the rules and regulations of the country where they are enrolled, when:

- compassionate or compelling circumstances are deemed to apply;
- the overall enrolment for the student across all teaching periods is equivalent to 48 credit points;
- the student is unable to enrol in 24 credit points in each semester (or half-year equivalent) due to course structure, progression rules and/or unit availability; or
- an intervention strategy has been implemented to support the student at risk of unsatisfactory academic progress.

1.13 At Australian locations, where there is a variation in the enrolment load of an international student subject to ESOS requirements and the enrolment load will affect the student's expected duration of study the student must apply for a new CoE via the online enrolment system.

Enrolment overloading

1.14 Students seeking to enrol in a study load above the approved standard full-time load for their course must apply for approval to overload. The standard full-time study load for some courses may be greater than 48 credit points in some years. .

1.15 Students applying to overload must have both completed at least 48 credit points of study at the University in the most recent 12 months of study and achieved a credit average or higher. Students enrolled in Monash Online courses must have completed at least 18 credit points of study and achieved a credit average or higher across completed units with no failed units. Some courses may limit or preclude overloading as indicated in the Handbook.

1.16 Students cannot enrol in more than:

- 72 credit points in total per twelve-month period;
- 30 credit points in semesters 1 or 2;
- 12 credit points per teaching period for students enrolled in Monash Online courses; or
- 24 credit points per teaching period in any other teaching period except full-year teaching periods.

1.17 Students do not need to apply for approval to overload to undertake enrolment in approved summer, winter, industry experience, Global Immersion Guarantee, or Monash Innovation Guarantee units provided the overall study load does not exceed the credits points as set out in 1.16.

New enrolments

1.18 Commencing domestic students must accept their offer by the offer lapse date in their letter of offer and follow the steps outlined in the letter to complete their enrolment. Students who are unable to complete their enrolment in the timeframe communicated must seek permission from the managing faculty, school in Malaysia, or course coordinator in Indonesia, to enrol late.

1.19 Commencing international students at Australian and Malaysian locations must arrive and enrol in units no later than three calendar days before their first teaching period commences.

1.19.1 Enrolment and/or arrival after this date will normally be allowed until the end of the first teaching week.

1.19.2 Enrolment and/or arrival after the end of the first teaching week may be granted with faculty approval at Australian locations.

1.19.3 Requests by students to enrol after the end of the first teaching week will only be granted in exceptional circumstances at Malaysia and Indonesia. Requests will be considered by schools in Malaysia or course coordinators in Indonesia.

1.19.4 Approval will not be granted if the late enrolment is likely to disadvantage the student academically.

1.20 Managing faculties must have approval from the Provost for earlier enrolment and/or arrival timelines to those set out in 1.19 for a particular course.

Re-enrolment

1.21 Continuing students must re-enrol in units for the entire year by the dates specified on the University website or apply for intermission or leave (see section 6).

1.22 Students must resolve any encumbrance before they re-enrol in units or apply for intermission or leave. Late resolution of an encumbrance will not be considered a reason for waiving any late re-enrolment fee.

1.23 The University will publish the re-enrolment dates on the University website at least six months before the start of the re-enrolment period.

Late re-enrolment

1.24 Students who fail to re-enrol by the date on the University website, can re-enrol during the 'late re-enrolment' period or apply for intermission or leave. A late fee will apply during this period.

1.25 Students who have not re-enrolled or applied for intermission or leave during the 'late re-enrolment' period will have their enrolment discontinued with a reason of 'failed to re-enrol' and will need to apply to have their enrolment re-instated.

1.26 Students who fail to re-enrol but wish to continue their course may apply to have their enrolment reinstated before the start of the teaching period for their course.

1.26.1 Students must apply to their managing faculty, or school in Malaysia, with supporting documentation outlining the reasons for failing to re-enrol.

1.26.2 The managing faculty, or school in Malaysia, will determine whether a student's enrolment will be reinstated and on what basis. Enrolment conditions may be included where a student is reinstated.

1.26.3 Reinstatement of enrolment is not guaranteed. Fees apply where students have had their enrolment reinstated.

2. Collection of information

Initial enrolment information

2.1 Students have a responsibility to ensure that all information provided as part of the enrolment process is complete and correct.

2.2 All students must complete the enrolment questionnaire in the enrolment system prior to the commencement of their course. Some students may be required to complete additional enrolment tasks, for example:

- students offered a Commonwealth Supported Place (CSP) must complete a 'Request for Commonwealth support and HECS-HELP' form before the earliest census date for their course;
- compliance with other statutory requirements, e.g. proof of citizenship and identity by the request due date; or
- provide their Unique Student Identifier (USI) (as set out in 2.3).

2.3 The Australian Government requires all University students who study in Australia to have a Unique Student Identifier (USI). A USI is an individual education number that is connected to a student's record of training undertaken in Australia. The USI is different from the University issued student ID number (as set out in 2.11-2.13). Students must apply for a USI and provide it to the University via the web enrolment system, as set out on the Monash USI website.

2.4 Students are required to complete compulsory modules as part of their enrolment before classes commence. Students who have already completed the modules through a previous enrolment are exempt. Students who do not complete the compulsory modules within the required timeframe will be blocked from accessing the learning management system.

2.4.1 All students must complete the Introduction to Academic Integrity module.

2.4.2 Students at Australian locations (including courses offered through Monash Online), Monash University Malaysia, Monash University Indonesia and Monash Suzhou must complete the Respect at Monash module.

2.4.3 Students at Australian locations (including courses offered through Monash Online) must complete the Indigenous Australian Voices – An Introduction module.

Personal details

2.5 Students must keep their personal and contact details up-to-date from the point of initial enrolment and notify the University of any changes using the correct form and including any required evidence. This includes during any periods of intermission or leave.

2.6 Where the University uses a student's postal address for correspondence, for example in relation to exclusion, discipline, or cancellation of enrolment due to the non-payment of fees, the postal address recorded in the online enrolment system is used. The University does not accept responsibility if any communication fails to reach the student due to incorrect postal details.

2.7 Students at Australian locations can update details when affirming their gender using the change your personal details form.

Change of residency

2.8 Where a student has notified the University of a change of residency or citizenship status, the date for the change is the visa grant date, or the acquisition date on the citizenship certificate for a change of citizenship status. This may not be the date that any subsequent approved change to fee type comes into effect.

2.9 The effective date for any approved change to fee type following a change in residency status or citizenship is the next available census date after the student has notified the University and provided the required evidence to Monash Connect. A change to the fee type is determined by:

- Monash Connect in consultation with the managing faculties at Australian locations;
- Finance Unit at Monash University Malaysia; or
- Student Experience at Monash University Indonesia.

2.10 For students at Australian locations who change residency status or citizenship to become Australian permanent residents or citizens, there is no guarantee that a CSP will be available or granted.

Student identification number

2.11 The University issues each student with a student identification number (student ID number) that must be used throughout the enrolment.

2.12 The University retains student ID numbers of former students for any future enrolment into courses or units.

2.13 The student ID number should be quoted in all correspondence with the University.

Student ID card (M-Pass)

2.14 Students at Australian locations can order a digital M-Pass (or M-pass card at other locations) once they have completed the enrolment steps and have enrolled in units.

2.15 Students are required to show their M-Pass upon request by University staff members. Students may also be required to present their M-Pass in other situations such as during placements, invigilated assessments, exchange, study tours or fieldwork.

3. Restrictions on unit enrolment

Repeating units

3.1 Students are not permitted to repeat a unit that has already been successfully completed within their current course for the purpose of achieving a higher final grade and mark for the unit or improving their WAM or GPA.

3.2 Students may only enrol in a unit they have previously completed successfully if they:

- are admitted to a different course and choose not to accept credit for the unit; or
- apply to enrol in the unit as non-award study (see 4.9-4.11); or

- are required to do so following an extended period of absence, for example to update disciplinary or professional knowledge following an extended period of intermission or leave (as set out in 6.15 and 6.20).

Prerequisites and corequisites

3.3 Students must successfully complete any prerequisites before commencing a unit of study. Students who do not have the relevant prerequisites and wish to seek an exemption must contact the teaching faculty for approval. In certain circumstances students may be able to commence a unit of study where the results for the prerequisites have not been finalised.

3.4 For units that have corequisites, students must enrol in the corequisite concurrently or complete it before being permitted to enrol in the unit. Exemptions may be approved by the teaching faculty.

3.5 The University can cancel a student's enrolment in a unit prior to the commencement of the unit or the census date if the prerequisite or corequisite unit requirements have not been met.

Unit quotas

3.6 Units can have a quota limit on the number of students that can enrol in the unit or in a specific location or mode. Unit offerings with quotas will be indicated in the Handbook.

3.7 The teaching faculty will notify students attempting to enrol in quota-limited units whether they have been allocated a place as soon as possible and no later than one week prior to the start of the teaching period. For units that commence earlier than the teaching period, students must be notified no later than one week prior to the commencement of the unit.

Enrolment conditions

3.8 Students can have a condition imposed on their enrolment as set by a dean (or delegate) or by the Academic Progress Committee due to unsatisfactory academic progress. The powers to impose conditions are set out in Monash University (Academic Board) Regulations 30 and 32.

3.9 Where a student has not changed their enrolment in accordance with an imposed condition, this will be taken into consideration in academic progress processes and where the student has failed to maintain satisfactory academic progress. This may result in further conditions or exclusion from the course.

Credit points in excess of course requirements

3.10 Students cannot enrol in units exceeding the number of credit points required to complete the course, as specified in the year of entry in the Handbook. The degree faculty can approve exemptions only where the additional units are required for course completion (e.g. due to a previously approved change of major or specialisation). Student visa and course completion time limit implications will be taken into consideration.

3.11 Students wishing to enrol in additional units that do not contribute to the requirements of their course (e.g. for personal interest or professional recognition) may apply to enrol in non-award study (as set out in 4.9-4.11).

Cancellation of unit offerings

3.12 The dean (or delegate) of the teaching faculty can cancel a unit offering taught by the faculty under the following circumstances:

- the unit is offered in multiple locations or modes in the same teaching period, as long as one offering of the unit or an equivalent unit remains;
- low enrolment numbers make the offering unviable; or
- in serious unforeseeable circumstances e.g. sudden unavailability of a teaching staff member.

3.13 Before cancelling a unit offering that has enrolled students, the dean (or delegate) of the teaching faculty must:

- consult with the unit owning faculty and make every effort to resolve the problem, e.g. recruit alternative teaching staff with relevant expertise in the case of sudden unavailability of a teaching staff member;
- attempt to identify an alternative unit that will not disadvantage students;
- consult with the enrolled students' degree-awarding faculties; and
- consider how student progression will be affected by the cancellation and, if applicable, the impact on students' ability to obtain professional accreditation.

3.14 The deadline for cancelling a unit offering and notifying students is at least one week before the start of the teaching period or the commencement of the unit where the unit commences earlier than the teaching period.

3.15 The teaching faculty, in consultation with the managing faculty, must advise affected students of the cancellation reason and the options available to them, such as taking the unit in a different mode or location, or enrolling in an alternative unit.

3.16 The unit-owning faculty will ensure the cancellation is recorded in the student management system and Handbook.

4. Studying at other institutions, locations or courses and single units

External study – Monash University students studying at other institutions

4.1 Students may undertake study at other institutions which contributes to the completion of their Monash University course, provided they seek prior approval from their managing faculty. This may be through:

- complementary study; or
- exchange or study abroad at an overseas institution.

4.2 Complementary study may be approved when the unit is not available at the University or delivered in a specific mode, or is not offered within a reasonable timeframe.

4.3 Students who have been approved to complete external studies as part of their Monash University course must be enrolled into the faculty exchange, study abroad or complementary study unit codes.

4.4 Students approved to study at another institution, or who undertake international travel for study purposes, must remain enrolled at Monash University and ensure their unit enrolment at the University is kept up to date in line with the published enrolment dates. The host institution will also have specific requirements and dates for enrolment that students must follow.

4.5 After completing external study, students must submit a certified statement of results from the host institution to their managing faculty to finalise the unit grades. Students who submit a certified statement will receive a grade of SFR or NSR as per the grading schema procedure. Students who do not provide this statement within the timeframe specified by the faculty will have a fail grade recorded for the unit/s.

4.6 International students on a student visa or study visa who undertake external study must be enrolled in a sufficient study load to be able to complete their course within the duration specified on their CoE or Student Pass (as set out in 1.11).

External study – students from other institutions studying at Monash University

4.7 Students from other institutions may apply to study at Monash University on a non-award basis through:

- cross-institutional enrolment – students from other institutions in the same country;
- exchange or study abroad – students from institutions in another country; or
- single-unit enrolment.

4.8 Incoming students taking part in a University approved non-award program, study abroad, exchange or cross-institutional enrolment can enrol in a maximum study load of 48 credit points per year, or a proportionate number of credit points for students who are not studying a full year.

Single-unit enrolments

4.9 Persons who are not enrolled in a course at Monash University may apply to enrol in single units as non-award study. Students enrolled in a course at the University may also apply to enrol into single units as non-award study outside their course, subject to the rules for increased study load set out in 1.14-1.16. Students approved for enrolment in single unit non-award study are subject to tuition fees determined by the University, as set out in the Student Fees Procedure.

4.10 The teaching faculty or school determines whether to make places available for single-unit enrolment for a specific teaching period. Persons applying for single unit enrolment must meet the admission requirements set out in the Admission to Coursework Courses and Units Procedure, including any unit prerequisites. .

4.11 Students may enrol in a maximum of 12 credit points of single units in any teaching period, unless the enrolment is part of a University-approved non-award program, study abroad, exchange or cross-institutional enrolment. The dean (or delegate) of the managing faculty of the course, or school in Malaysia, the student is enrolled in may grant exceptions to this rule.

Monash University overseas intercampus exchange program

4.12 Students approved for an overseas intercampus exchange:

- must have their study plan approved by their managing faculty (in consultation with their partner degree faculty for double degree students), or school in Malaysia, prior to commencing exchange;
- must remain enrolled at their home Monash University campus and pay the course fees of the home campus; and
- are responsible for seeking approval from their managing faculty, or school in Malaysia, at their home campus for any changes to their enrolment and/or approved study plan while overseas.

4.13 International students studying on a student visa or study visa who have been approved to undertake an intercampus exchange must enrol in sufficient credit points per calendar year at the overseas host campus in order to complete their course within the standard duration, or in the time specified in their CoE or Student Pass.

Concurrent enrolment

4.14 Enrolment in more than one course concurrently is normally not permitted. Students seeking to enrol in more than one course at Monash University must have approval from the relevant managing faculties.

4.15 Students approved for enrolment in more than one course are not permitted to enrol in a total study load exceeding full-time (1.0 EFTSL), unless the arrangement has been approved by the managing faculties. Approved concurrent enrolments for a student, and any arrangements associated with these, must be recorded by the managing faculties in the student management system. Students found to be enrolled, without approval, in more than one course will have their enrolment discontinued in the course they have most recently enrolled in.

4.16 Students approved for enrolment in more than one course must:

- re-enrol separately for each course as set out in 1.21-1.22; and
- complete the requirements of each course within the maximum duration specified in the University Handbook.

5. Changes to enrolment

Adding and discontinuing units

5.1 Students must use the online enrolment system to add or discontinue their unit enrolment where online enrolment is available.

5.2 Students can add units to their enrolment provided it is within their approved study load.

5.2.1 Units can be added until the Friday of the second week for most teaching periods or the census date where the census date is before the second week of the teaching period.

5.2.2 Units with non-standard dates can be added as published.

5.2.3 Monash Online units can be added until the Friday before the teaching period commences.

5.2.4 Students wishing to add units after the last date available for the teaching period, must seek approval from their managing faculty, or school in Malaysia. Approval is at the discretion of the managing faculty and will not be granted if the late enrolment is likely to disadvantage the student academically.

5.2.5 After the census date units can only be added on a full-fee paying basis for all students and cannot be commonwealth supported even where the units contribute to the course requirements.

5.3 Students can discontinue units up until the end of the teaching weeks. Academic and financial penalties can apply depending on the date of discontinuation. International students must continue to maintain study load requirements as set out in 1.11 unless they have approval for reduced load (see 1.12).

5.4 Penalties due to late changes can normally only be waived if the changes were caused by an error made by the University. Students must notify Monash Connect as soon as possible if they are aware of an error in their enrolment.

5.5 A unit cannot be added or discontinued after the end of the relevant teaching period unless it is due to a University error that could not be brought to the attention of the University earlier due to exceptional circumstances.

Changes to study load and mode

5.6 Students may request to change between attendance type (e.g. full-time to part-time) and unit mode (e.g. on campus to online), where available. Students should seek advice from their managing faculty, or school in Malaysia, before requesting a change as there may be restrictions on changes to attendance type and unit mode transfers.

5.7 Domestic students manage changes to their attendance type and associated study load or unit mode changes in the online enrolment system.

5.8 International students studying on a student visa or study visa are subject to study load requirements and full-time attendance mode as set out in 1.11. Students must have faculty, or school in Malaysia, approval for any variation to their approved study load as set out in 1.12. The managing faculty, or school in Malaysia, will record the variation and the reasons in the student management system.

5.9 In Australia, international students subject to ESOS requirements are permitted to study up to one third of their total course in units with an online mode. In each teaching period the student must be studying at least one unit that has an on campus or flexible mode, unless the unit is the last unit of their course.

5.10 International students with a Student Pass enrolled at Monash University Malaysia must continue to meet Student Pass requirements for attendance type and unit mode throughout their enrolment.

Change of course or campus

5.11 Students who have applied to transfer to another Monash University course must remain enrolled in their current course until they have been advised of the outcome of their application.

5.12 Students applying for an internal course transfer will receive notification of the outcome following assessment by the managing faculty, or school in Malaysia. If the transfer application was successful, the notification will include information about how to accept the offer and any applicable credit transfer of units.

5.13 Students wishing to transfer to another Monash University campus must check with their managing faculty to determine any eligibility requirements. Student fees will be affected if the campus transfer is across country borders, such as from Monash University Malaysia to Monash University Australia.

5.13.1 When transferring across country borders it is the student's responsibility to be aware of and meet any applicable visa requirements.

5.13.2 Where an international student subject to ESOS requirements changes course or campus, the University will issue a new or updated CoE.

5.13.3 An international student changing course at Monash University Malaysia must confirm Student Pass requirements with the Student Pass Office.

5.14 Students who accept an offer of a course transfer before they have completed their previous course will be discontinued from their previous course when they commence their new course. Exceptions can be made for students who are close to course completion, in which case this will be specified in the offer letter.

Backdated enrolment changes

5.15 A student's enrolment will only be backdated when it is due to a University error.

6. Intermission and leave

Intermission

6.1 Students who have commenced their course and are beyond their first census date can apply to Monash Connect for intermission for one or more teaching periods.

6.2 Intermission is normally granted for whole teaching periods. The total number of teaching periods for which intermission can be granted for the duration of a student's enrolment in a course must not exceed 12 months. Consideration will be given to course requirements including courses in teach-out and maximum course duration. Intermission is approved by:

- Monash Connect in consultation with faculties at Australian locations;
- Schools in Malaysia and in consultation with the Student Pass Office for international students; or
- Student Experience at Monash University Indonesia.

6.3 Any periods of intermission taken by students in 2020 and 2021 with the stated reason 'COVID-19' will not count towards the 12-month maximum allowance with the exception of international students with a Student Pass at Monash University Malaysia (see 6.7). Students granted intermission for COVID-19 must complete their course within the maximum course duration (see 6.22).

6.4 Where the application is submitted in advance, the intermission will commence from the start of the teaching period. Where the application is submitted after the commencement of the teaching period in which the intermission is requested, the intermission will commence the date the application is submitted. Students who apply after the census date will incur financial and academic penalties for all units in that teaching period.

6.5 Any intermission applications from students who are in their first teaching period and who apply before the census date will be processed as applications to defer, see Admission to Coursework Courses and Units Procedure.

6.6 International students subject to ESOS requirements will only be granted intermission in compassionate or compelling circumstances.

6.7 International students with a Student Pass at Monash University Malaysia can take intermission for two separate or consecutive teaching periods up to a maximum of 12 months.

Re-enrolment after intermission

6.8 The managing faculty will reserve a place in the course for students returning from intermission.

6.9 Students on intermission must re-enrol for the following year by the re-enrolment dates published on the University website. Students on intermission who fail to re-enrol for their intended return teaching period by the last date of the re-enrolment period will be discontinued with a reason of 'failed to re-enrol'.

6.10 International students subject to ESOS requirements must investigate if they need to apply for a new CoE with a revised course completion date when they return from intermission.

6.11 International students at Monash University Malaysia may be required to cancel (shorten) their Student Pass during intermission. Students who have cancelled their Student Pass must re-apply for a Student Pass before they return from intermission.

Additional or extended periods of intermission

6.12 The managing faculty, or school in Malaysia, may approve applications for intermission beyond 12 months in certain circumstances and subject to the rules and regulations of the country where the student is studying. Supporting documentation may be required. Reasons may include but are not limited to:

- personal circumstances, for example family responsibilities including carers, health, or family violence;
- sporting or performance commitments for student athletes, artists, performers and representatives;
- service commitments for defence reserve members or volunteer emergency services personnel; or
- jury service.

6.13 For student carers and students experiencing difficulties related to medical and mental health conditions, advice from support services will be considered when making the decision to extend the intermission period.

6.14 In conjunction with considering an application for extended intermission, the managing faculty, or school in Malaysia, will consider whether to recommend that the dean (or delegate) extends the maximum course duration as set out in clause 6.24.

6.15 Students returning after an extended period of intermission may be required to repeat units, undertake additional units or transfer to a different course, depending on course requirements, the rate of change in discipline knowledge or practice, including professional accreditation requirements, or if the course has been disestablished.

6.16 Students who have reached the maximum period of approved intermission, including any approved extension, and are unable to return to their course will be discontinued from their course and can re-apply for admission when they are ready to return to study.

Parental leave

6.17 Domestic students or international students not studying on a student visa or study visa, can apply to Monash Connect to take parental leave from their course for a period of up to 12 months per child. Parental leave applies to any student who has, or will have, significant caregiving responsibilities for a child. Applications must include supporting documentation showing that the leave period aligns with the period/s of caregiving for the child.

6.18 Parental leave is in addition to students' entitlement for intermission.

6.19 An extension of parental leave beyond 12 months may be granted at the discretion of the managing faculty.

6.20 Students returning after an extended period of parental leave may be required to repeat units, undertake additional units or transfer to a different course, depending on course requirements, the rate of change in discipline knowledge or practice, including professional accreditation requirements, or if the course has been disestablished.

6.21 International students studying on a student visa or study visa are not eligible for parental leave as set out in 6.17-6.19. Students can apply for intermission on the grounds of compassionate or compelling circumstances where they have caregiving responsibilities.

Maximum period of enrolment

6.22 Students must complete the requirements of their course within the maximum duration specified in the University Handbook.

6.22.1 Periods of intermission and suspension from the University will count towards the maximum period of enrolment in a course.

6.22.2 Parental leave will not be counted towards the maximum time limit to complete the course.

6.23 International students at all locations must comply with the expected duration of study to complete their course as specified on their CoE or Student Pass.

6.24 The dean of the degree faculty (or delegate) may extend the maximum period of enrolment for students in exceptional circumstances.

7. Encumbrance and discontinuation, suspension and cancellation of enrolment

Discontinuing from a course

7.1 Students discontinuing from their course must submit a formal request using the appropriate form.

7.1.1 Students at Australian locations submit a request for course discontinuation;

7.1.2 Students enrolled in Monash online courses submit an online form;

7.1.3 Students at Malaysia submit a course discontinuation form.

7.2 Students applying to discontinue after the census date of the current teaching period will incur financial and academic penalties.

7.3 Students who fail to discontinue from their course remain liable for financial and academic penalties.

7.4 Students who discontinue forfeit their place in the course. A student who has discontinued their course must follow the University admission process to apply for admission to the same course or a new course.

Encumbrance of access to student record

7.5 The University may place an encumbrance on a student's access to Monash services where a student has failed to comply with a requirement set by the University, for example, in relation to unpaid fees, fines, loan payments, missing information, unreturned resources, disciplinary proceedings, incomplete administrative requirements or non compliance with visa/Student Pass requirements (Malaysia only).

7.6 Where access to a student's record is encumbered, a student will not be able to enrol in units.

7.7 An active encumbrance can result in the following:

- loss of access to library borrowing and other library services;
- loss of access to the University's computer systems, including Internet, learning management system and eAssessment platforms;
- loss of access to enrolment, final results for a unit and/or academic transcripts; and/or,
- the inability to graduate.

Suspension of enrolment

7.8 The University can suspend a student from study, for example in relation to a discipline offence (see Student General Conduct Policy). Suspended students remain students of the University but are not permitted to enrol in any Monash University course or unit for the period of their suspension.

7.9 Suspended students are not permitted to:

- attend or participate in any teaching and learning activities;
- submit any work for assessment;

- gain credit towards a course or unit of study; or
- have their degree conferred or any other award granted.

7.10 After the period of suspension, students can resume their studies in the same course, subject to the availability of places, and any conditions imposed by the University.

7.11 Any tuition fees paid will be managed according to the Student Fees Refunds Procedure or the Schedule for Monash University Indonesia.

Cancellation of enrolment

7.12 The University can cancel a student's admission to a course, enrolment in a course or enrolment in one or more units of study in certain circumstances:

7.12.1 For having falsified or failed to disclose information that would have led to the student's application for admission being rejected. See section 13 of the Monash University (Vice-Chancellor) Regulations.

7.12.2 For failing to complete or maintain all requirements of initial enrolment. See clauses 2.2 to 2.3.

7.12.3 For failing to enrol or maintain enrolment. See section 13 of the Monash University (Vice-Chancellor) Regulations.

7.12.4 For not paying fees by the due date. See Student Fees Policy and associated Procedure and Schedules.

7.12.5 For general or academic misconduct. See part 7 of the Monash University (Council) Regulations.

7.12.6 For unsatisfactory academic progress or inability to progress in a course. See part 4 of the Monash University (Academic Board) Regulations.

7.12.7 For reasons of unsatisfactory academic progress, health and safety, or discipline, at the University or another educational institution. See section 14 of the Monash University (Vice-Chancellor) Regulations.

7.12.8 For failing to meet any obligations related to intellectual property. See section 24 of the Monash University (Vice-Chancellor) Regulations.

7.12.9 For failing to comply with a condition of an international student visa, Student Pass or study permit.

7.12.10 If the University withdraws permission for the student to be on University property to protect persons or property, abate a nuisance or prevent misconduct or criminal conduct. See part 3 of the Monash University (Vice-Chancellor) Regulations.

7.12.11 If the student's enrolment places the University in breach of law, including a law that implements United Nations Security Council sanctions and/or Australian autonomous sanctions.

7.12.12 In the event of the death of a student.

7.13 A student who has had their enrolment cancelled and wishes to apply for admission to the same course or a new course must follow the University admission process.

7.13.1 Students who have had their enrolment cancelled as a result of non-payment of fees should refer to 2.7-2.11 of the Student Fees Procedure or the Schedule for Monash University Indonesia.

Maintenance of enrolled status during an appeal period

7.14 In the case of suspension or cancellation of enrolment, a student's enrolment must be maintained until any relevant University appeal period has expired. If an appeal has been lodged, the enrolment must be maintained until the outcome is known.

8. Course completion

8.1 After the official release of results for the teaching period, the managing faculty will record that a student has completed their course if:

- the student has met all the course requirements; and
- results have been finalised for all units.
